

Portofino Travel Information

Portofino in Italy is known for its picturesque Harbour and Beaches

Portofino is a small fisherman village, which is sheltered by the sea. This landscape looks incredibly attractive especially in the evenings when it's time for the sun to set. The best thing about this landscape is that it's not too large and all beaches are at most a walk away. Moreover, the most notable thing about Portofino is its lifestyle. Hence, it is appreciated by artists and visited by Hollywood stars and millionaires. There are some tourist shops for casual browsing as well as posh boutiques from some of the most well known designers of the world. Similarly, dining options have as much of a variety. Tourists could opt to eat simple Italian food as well as go for fine dining. It's extremely important for tourists to remember that dinner doesn't begin until 8pm in Portofino and the weekends tend to get busy so if you want to eat at a specific place over the weekends, you'd have to make reservations in advance. A lot of people associate wine with Italian food and the fact that this place is known for some unique wine cannot come as a surprise. But non-alcoholic beverages and soft drinks are readily available as well.
